It is rumored labor at 870 or 880 per month, such as carpenters, &c., at Washington city? If so, is it to be known only to a select class?

It is rumored here that such a demand does exist to the extent of four men from each township of every county in the State, and that they are to be selected as follows:

REPORTER: "Do you think West Virginia ought to pay a share of the debt?"

Mr. Blaine: "Under all the circumstances I do not, nor do I believe there is a State in the Union situated as West Virginia is that would assume any portion of the Virginia debt. You must remember that we did not erect the State of West weld not erect the State of West weld it as a war measure for the benefit of the little of the li it as a war measure for the benefit of the whole Union, and the State of Virginia bore the costly sacrifice alone. It is not, in my judgment, fair or right that Virginia alone should be made the victim for the sins of the dead Confederacy."

Clearly, Mr. BLAINE contemplates paying no part of the debt except what ought to be paid by the General Government because West Virginia was cut off from Virginia as a war measure. Mr. BLAINE is no stranger in Richmond, nor in Virginia, nor in West Virginia as to that matter, and knows exactly what he is talking about.

The Intelligencer says: "She [Virginia] ought therefore to be very thankful in case the Federal Government steps in and assumes this liability, thereby taking off her shoulders a debt that West Virginia never acknowledged as to its full amount, and that Virginia is bound for to its full amount. This is where the advantages of Mr. Blaine's proposition comes in for the State of Virginia."
